Union Cheap Bread Manufactory

Opposite the Market,
Adjoining James S. Scott's, Royal Street—ALEXANDRIA—

By WILLIAM LOVELL,

Who begs leave to inform the Ladies, Gentlemen, and the Public in general, in this town, that on Wednesday, the first of May, he will commence baking; where they may be supplied with BREAD of the first quality and found baked, on such terms never before offered in this place; as follows:

THE eighteen penny loaf for 20 cents, the penny loaf for 10 cents, four penny loaf for 5 cents; and, for the convenience of those whose family or circumstances will not admit of LARGE BREAD, he will make the three penny loaf two ounces heavier than the weight fixed by the Clerk of the Market, as directed by the Corporation; so that the labouring man will be served on as good terms as the merchant. The BEST SUPERFINE FLOUR for household keeping at seven cents per pound, or fifteen pounds for a dollar. Those Ladies and Gentlemen who wish to be regularly supplied at their own houses, will be obliging enough to send a line as above, which will be attended to. Great allowance to sellers of Bread. To prevent any misunderstanding the above terms are CASH, unless where stated credits are agreed on, and those are expected to be regularly paid—the profits being small.

N. B. To Taverns, Boarding-houses, and large families, there will be an additional saving of ten per cent. in buying LARGE LOAVES in preference to SMALL.

Our salvation, if any, is in the precipitancy of the conspirators, who in their career preserve no measures with consistency or moderation. It is now affirmed that the Louisiana remonstrance is a subject unworthy of notice, and ought not to be suffered to meet the consideration of congress. I do mention it as a matter of surprise that the people are held in contempt by their favorites; I am only surprised at the early period and flagrant manner in which that contempt is expressed. Part of a republican nation complaining that they are aggrieved and praying to be relieved, are told in plain terms that they are not to be heard. And it is in the language of all popular government, that those who would now deny a hearing to the people are the same who have hitherto affected to maintain the right of a people to question their rulers in all cases whatever. Even language like this will be received without indignation. We have seen that free people, however spirited, may be flattered out of their senses; that they will ultimately submit to be shackled by their flatterers before they can be made to believe that they are deceived. We have seen this to have been the course and event of all popular government; that ever existed, ours yet excepted. But we are told, that with the color of truth, that ours is unlike all others; we are told too, and made to believe it, that our enlightened minds will certainly discover mischief, which may be plotting. It is upon this vain belief of our discernment that the conspirators calculate to work our ruin. Whether the people of Louisiana have grounds for remonstrance, the people have yet to learn. As the remonstrance, itself is an appeal to our justice & to our passions & carries upon the face of it this certainty, that the people are are really aggrieved, or they are really disposed to be unruly. If Mr. Jefferson by an oppressive form of government has given them cause of complaint, it is incumbent on him to reconcile an act of oppression with his desire of freedom for the people. If they complain without a cause, he must shew that he had not foreseen their character, or why an unruly people was taken into the nation. I cannot but compare what Mr. Jefferson now is, with what he was, and might have been. Never will a man accede to the presidency of the American republic under such auspices, as did Mr. Jefferson. There was already a route marked out and travelled by the great Washington; that route one part of the nation wished him to take as being in their view the most eligible. The other part of the nation (for I do not reckon a few aliens) would have approved that route as readily as any other, for they required no other evidence of the propriety of his measures but that he had chosen them. That route he did not take. The character of this man is a subject of curious speculation—not that he is impelled by uncommon motives, but that he is impelled by no conceivable motive against the assemblage of all motives. It is in the destiny of this man to tumble without impediments, and blunder in mid day. Whatever he had adopted has been the means of bringing him into open shame. The introduction of new officers to work wonders, has resulted in weakness of public functions and national disgrace; economy ending in waste; a navy declared to be useless is reduced to nothing at a time when it is required in its full force; a revolution approved, patronized, and prophesied to end in freedom, stops at a point of dreadful tyranny; professions of unity are believed by nations to be but the notes of fear; wherefore we are insulted without ceremony, and our chief magistrate despoised with moderation in consideration of meapacy. * * *

I have said that whatever measure Mr. Jefferson has adopted, has been the means of bringing him to open shame. Though I cannot in truth, change the terms of the position, I am willing to soften the import of it, by affirming that I do not mean thereby to lay upon Mr. Jefferson any charge of criminality, for it does not by any means appear that his incapacity is not superior to his enmity of the former administration, and very possibly he may have acted on pure motives; but I do mean to affirm, that from the commencement of his administration his measures have been the means of lessening his reputation at home and abroad: that the consideration in which his abilities are now held, compared with that in which they were held, would excite in any man, not bereft of his faculties, a sensation of shame. His reelection proves nothing in relation to the consideration in which his abilities are now held by those who have had a full view of his character. It is evident that his advocates have a decided influence upon the minds of the people, and that they for some reasons have thought proper to continue him in the chair, but it does not prove that his abilities are not held in contempt by these advocates. But judging from my own observations, I do not think so meanly of his abilities. His reputation has been much above the level of his genius: it is now something below. Nature designed him for an ingenious inquirer. He reasons very prettily upon physics, and would preside with some dignity over a province of skepticks, provided there was no other province on earth. But the president of a great nation, in the present order of things, ought to possess somewhat of the spirit of a warrior: even to know a little of the theory of war might be expedient. Mr. Jefferson's warmest panegyrists do not pretend he has gone further in that science than the method of retreat. We have as great proof of his magnanimity as a consummate patience of insults can give, and he has left us to judge of his capacity in politics by his resource in blunders. As to the quality of his heart, much has been said on both sides; all trying history will inform posterity on that point. If he has acted a double part with the character of Washington, if he paid Callender no more than one hundred dollars to lie without intermission, if he has turned out of office men unexceptionable, and received renegados, to gratify personal revenge, if he has invaded the constitution with malice prepense, if the combined sense of friendship and honor is inferior to his libidinous sense—I shall not scruple to affirm that his name will never be forgotten, and the only act in his power, that can add lustre to his immortality, is to supplicate God, that it may never be remembered."

No. 1. A full length portrait of sir Francis Bacon, lord Varulam, by V. Melville, R. A. and A. S. S. His lordship is drawn seated at his table, counting his money bags, while one of his servants is seen filching the guineas, and trotting off with them to his banker. The outline is bold, but the colouring is coarse, and the light and shade are injudiciously contrasted. There is a palpable error in the costume, which is Caledonian, as is also the cast of his lordship's features.

No. 11. A portrait of Alexander the Great, by Mr. Wellesley, R. A. The hero is not drawn, as we usually find him represented, visiting the camp of Darius, or the temple of Jupiter Ammon, killing Clytus, or feasting and firing a town with Thais. He is mounted on his favorite steed Bucephalus, capering and prancing over the directors of a certain company, who are sprawling under his feet, and crying out for mercy. At first glance, this painting has something the air of St. George and the Dragon; but, upon an attentive view, we recognize, in both the horse and the rider, a great deal of the expression of Don Quixotte and Rosinante. This piece is finely painted, but we think there is too much glare and glitter in the colors. There is also a palpable anachronism in the design; some thousands of years having intervened between the time of Alexander the Great and the establishment of the company in question.

No. 20. Julio, by M. Sprott, Academician. This is a full length portrait of this interesting deaf and dumb youth, from the favorite play of Deaf and Dumb. The person of Julio is liable to the objection made by the critics to the portrait at Drury lane Theatre; it is too stiff and too old. The attitude and expression of the Abbe De l'Epee are bad. He looks more like one of the Commissioners of Naval Enquiry, lamenting that he cannot teach the boy to speak, than the philanthropical Preceptor rejoicing in the success of his art. The expression of Julio is also very defective. His countenance betrays no joy at the triumph of right over injustice, and the restoration of property to the injured owner. Most assuredly it was not the elegant Miss De Camp, but some stiff broker of the Stock Exchange, who sat for this portrait. The piece, however, is not without interest and the drawing is upon a very large scale.

No. 24. A stud, comprising only two horses, the joint production of G. Ponsonby, and G. Canaing, Royal Artists. The two horses are Treasurer and Patriot. Treasurer appears to have been lately tied up to the rack and manger, and, as if just loosened from a long fast, to be greedily devouring his oats. He is kicking, flinging, and biting, to such an excess, that his groom seems afraid to approach his sides with the curry comb. Patriot is a fine blooded horse of great bone and sinew; he views Treasurer with great contempt from an opposite stall.

PUBLIC THEATRICALS.

NATIONAL THEATRE.

A new-piece entitled The Tenth Report, is in preparation and will shortly be produced at this Theatre. It was originally intended by the author for a farce, but being lately submitted to the examination of some shrewd critics, they thought the fable and incidents more in the way of Tragedy. The piece has been got up at great expence, and reflects much credit to the liberality of the managers.—The scenery is very grand, but it betrays marks of DIRTY HANDS.

End of the 1st. Act, a Scottish Strathspey to the tune of Money in both pockets, by Viscount M—and Mr. T—r.

The following extract may serve as a specimen of the dialogue.

ACT I.—SCENE II.

Enter Mrs. Busy and Mr. Buz.

Mrs. Busy—Mercy on me, the Tenth Report, I hear of nothing but the Tenth Report. The invasion and Bonaparte are both laid aside for the Tenth Report.... Surely we cannot have lived so long in the commercial and fashionable world, to be told now for the first time of the Tenth Report. I was last evening at a party in the west end of the town, where I am certain I could not have heard of fewer than five hundred reports. Let me see, Eve intrigued with the serpent; that was the first report; and most assuredly, if Adam had any friends or neighbors, he must have heard more than the tenth report before he left paradise.

Mr. Buz—Pshaw! Mrs. Busy, what are you about? The Tenth Report is a Cata-maran. 'Tis a blunderbuss of enormous calibre. It contains a charge of many thousand pounds. A Noble Viscount, who has distinguished himself in the navy department, and was present in the attack upon the Boulogne flotilla, declares he dreads its explosion more than the thunder of all the batteries in France.

Enter Mr. CUNNING.

Serjeant Canning—Scandal and Catamarans. The Tenth Report is a libel, it is a bill of indictment against the honestest man in the country. It contains the most unwarrantable charges. It contains such counts—

Mr. Buz—Aye, and such discounts as will puzzle your arithmetic.

Enter M—K SER—T, a deaf and dumb boy.

AN ACT,

Providing a REVENUE for the year 1805, and regulating the mode of COLLECTION.

SECT. 1. BE it enacted, by the Common Council of Alexandria, That the following tax, es be levied upon the people and property of the town, to meet the current expences of the present year—that is to say: On all houses and lots at the rate of fifty cents on every hundred dollars of their assessed value; on every four wheeled riding carriage six dollars; on every chair, sulkey, or two wheeled riding carriage three dollars; on every horse one dollar and fifty cents; on every tavern licence twelve dollars; on every male, titihable, two dollars; on every cart and dray three dollars; and on every cow fifty cents.

SECT. 2. Be it further enacted, that to meet the local expenditures of the several districts of the town, the following tax be levied in addition to the foregoing—that is to say: For the southern district, upon all houses and lots within said districts at the rate of fifteen cents upon each hundred dollars of the assessed value of the same; and for the northern district, upon all houses and lots within said district, at the rate of ten cents upon each hundred dollars of the assessed value of the same.

SECT. 3. Be it further enacted, That the collector for the corporation be allowed, on all monies collected by him under this law, and paid over to the treasurer a commission of four percent.

SECT. 4. Be it further enacted, That an act passed the 22d day of June, 1804, entitled "An act for amending an act, entitled an act for raising a revenue," &c. be and the same is hereby repealed.

SECT. 5. And be it further enacted, That the collector do proceed immediately to collect as well the aforesaid taxes as all others yet due and in arrear and coming due, and do disburse for the same if necessary; and that on the fourth Monday in October next, he do render an account to Council, how he has proceeded in such collection, noting what taxes he has not been able to collect, and the impediments that may have prevented such collection.

SECT. 6. And be it further enacted, That the collector shall not hereafter discount with any person whatever, any sum or sums of money due from the corporation, except with such persons to whom such debt or debts may have been originally contracted, and in whole name the order for payment originally issued; but the collector shall proceed to collect, in money, and pay over to the treasurer all taxes due or coming due without making or allowing any deduction or discount for or on account of any assignment or transference whatsoever of any claim upon the corporation.

Passed in Common Council, the 6th day of July, one thousand eight hundred and five.

HENRY ROSE, President.

Approved, July 8, 1805.

JONAH THOMPSON, Mayor.

POTOMAC COMPANY.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Potomac Company, will be held according to law at the Union Tavern in George Town, on Monday the 5th day of August next, on which occasion a full meeting of the proprietors is requested, when the proceedings of the Board of Directors, together with the disbursements of the Treasurer since the last general meeting, will then be laid before them for their consideration.

VALUABLE FAMILY MEDICINES.

Just received direct from the Patentees, and
FOR SALE BY
JAMES KENNEDY, JUN.
DRUGGIST.

The following Valuable Medicines:
Dr. Rawson's Anti-Bilious and Stomach Bitters.
PREPARED BY
THOMAS H. RAWSON,
Member of the Connecticut Medical Society.

THESE Bitters have undoubtedly had the most rapid sale of any Patent Medicine ever before discovered, and are justly appreciated for their singular and uncommon virtues for restoring weak and decayed constitutions, and all that train of complicated complaints so common in the spring and fall seasons, such as intermittent fevers and agues, long autumnal fevers, dysenteries, &c. They are also a very pleasant bitter for common use, and where they are known they have taken the place and superseded the use of all other bitters in public houses as well as in private families.—Price 50 cents a box.

Dr. Lee's (Windham) Billious Pills.
THE great sale and increasing demand for these valuable pills for these twelve years past, bespeak their intrinsic worth. They have proved singularly efficacious in Billious and Yellow fevers, jaundies, Head Aches, Dysenteries, Billious Cholera, Catarrhs, Female complaints, &c.

The very great demand and high esteem in which these pills are held throughout the United States and the West Indies, has induced many to counterfeit them; the purchaser is requested to observe that the name of Samuel Lee, jun. (the patentee) is affixed to each bill of directions, in his own hand writing, or they will not be genuine. Price 50 cents a box.

Dr. Rawson's Itch Ointment.

A certain and safe application for that disagreeable complaint called the ITCH. Price 42 cents a box.

Dr. Rawson's Anti-Bilious Pills, or, Family Physic.

The extraordinary celebrity these pills have gained, the universal demand for them and esteem in which they are held by medical men of the first eminence, are sufficient testimonials of their intrinsic worth. In great colds and sudden attacks of disorders, an early use of these pills often produces the happiest effects, and taken once in eight or ten days in cases of indigestion, headache, dizziness, pains in the stomach and bowels, dysenteries, diarrhoeas, dropsies, &c. and a liberal use of my anti-bilious bitters in the intermediate time has relieved patients almost to a miracle.—price 25 cents a box.

Thompson's Aromatic Tooth Paste.

For the scurvy in the teeth and gums, and for whitening and preserving the teeth. It likewise takes off all disagreeable smells from the breath, which generally arises from scorbutic gums and bad teeth. This paste is much in use, and highly esteemed by all those who value the preservation of their teeth, it may be applied at all times with the greatest safety. It is neatly put up in

Hinkley's Infallible remedy for the Piles.

Price 50 Cents a Box.

FOR SALE,

Or to Let, for a Term of Years, or on Ground-Rent for ever,

Four valuable Lots, on the fourth side of King-street, between Fayette and Henry-streets; each lot fronting 20 feet on King-street, and running back 100 feet to a 12 feet alley. The situation of this property is such (being in one of the most thriving parts of the town) as to make the possession of it very desirable to any person having money to purchase, more especially to dealers in country produce.

Also, for Sale,

A House and Lot, on the fourth side of King street, near Washington street, and opposite the store of Mr. James Bacon. This situation is equal to any in town for business.

Likewise to Let, for the term of ten years,

An half-acre Lot on Duke and Pitt streets, most eligibly situated for a Garden or Clover Lot, for which purpose only it would be rented. As manure has been thrown up in heaps upon it for several years the ground cannot but be as rich as could be wished. For terms apply to Mr. James Bacon, on King, near Washington street, or to the subscriber, at Notley Hall, opposite to Alexandria.

Thos. L. Washington.

N. B. To Hire by the month,

A very likely active BOY,

About 15 years old, who has from a child been accustomed to wait in the house, provided immediate application is made as above.

Union Cheap Bread Manufactory.

Opposite the Market,

Adjoining James S. Scott's, Royal street—ALEXANDRIA—

By WILLIAM LOVELL,
Who begs leave to inform the Ladies, Gentlemen, and the Public in general, in this town, that on Wednesday, the first of May, he will commence baking; where they may be supplied with BREAD of the first quality and found baked, on such terms never before offered in this place; as follows:

THE eighteen penny loaf for 20 cents, nine penny loaf for 10 cents, four pence half penny loaf for 5 cents; and, for the convenience of those whose family or circumstances will not admit of LARGE BREAD, he will make the three penny loaf two ounces heavier than the weight fixed by the Clerk of the Market, as directed by the Corporation; so that the labouring man will be served on as good terms as the merchant. The best SUPERFINE FLOUR for house keeping at seven cents per pound, or fifteen pounds for a dollar. Those Ladies and Gentlemen who wish to be regularly supplied at their own houses, will be obliging enough to send a line as above, which will be attended to. Great allowance to sellers of Bread. To prevent any misunderstanding the above terms are CASH, unless where stated credits are agreed on, and those are expected to be regularly paid—the profits being small.

N. B. To Taverns, Boarding-houses, and large families, there will be an additional saving of ten per cent. in buying LARGE LOAVES in preference to SMALL.

PHILADELPHIA, JULY 1, 1805.

Polygraphick Painting.

THIS art, so long kept a secret and exclusively practiced by the Polygraphick Society in London, is now in the possession of a Citizen of the United States lately arrived from Europe; who proposes to execute by subscription, two hundred copies from an original Allegorical Painting in the Shakespeare Gallery, New York, by permission of the Proprietor: being supported by LIBERTY, VIRTUE, and JUSTICE. VIR TUE is holding the emblem of the reward he is entitled to. In the right of the piece, AMERICA, characterized as an Ab-original, is seated in a pensive posture lamenting her loss. In the left is PAINTING, turned to HISTORY, for a subject worthy of her art, who is supposed to answer,

"There is none more worthy than Washington!"

The whole forming a more emblematical tribute to the memory of that great man, than has yet been offered to the public.

To those who esteem his public services and his private worth, and to the patrons of improvements in the arts, this work is dedicated. Such as are already furnished with different engravings on this subject, will it is hoped, still find room for the present undertaking, when they consider, that it will be a PAINTING, and the design new, executed by a process, which renders it more durable than oil paintings—that it requires no glass—that while their prints contain, perhaps a faint resemblance only, this work affords a correct likeness, with the addition of six beautiful allegorical figures. The price also is reduced to as to leave, comparatively merits, no object.

Subscriptions, at Eight Dollars each, payable on delivery, (which is little more than the price of an engraving of the same size) are received by Conrad & Co. Bookellers, Philadelphia; Robert Gray, Alexandria; Rapine, Conrad and Co. Capitol-hill City of Washington; and generally by Bookellers throughout the Union; who will please to return their Subscription papers to Conrad and Co. Philadelphia, previous to the first of November next, when the work will be ready for delivery.

Frames will be procured, of any pattern, if required on the most moderate terms.

IT IS ALSO PROPOSED TO EXECUTE PORTRAITS

Of Mr. and Mrs. Washington,

On a smaller scale, 15 inches by 12; executed by the same process, and will be ready for delivery at the same time, on subscriptions of Four Dollars and Fifty Cents each, including a Gift Frame. It is a principal aim of this work, to produce the most correct likenesses of this amiable couple.

One of the Paintings is now to be seen at Mr. Gadsby's Hotel, for a few days, who will receive subscriptions. As this copy is ordered to be sent to Richmond soon, another will be forwarded, if subscribers offer, to Robert Gray's, King street Alexandria, with whom subscribers may also enter their names.

The Artist presumes that the secret art of Polygraphick Painting is known only to himself in the U. States; having travelled from the Carolinas to Massachusetts without finding a master of it. By this original paintings may be multiplied, so as to render it difficult to point out the difference. The Polygraphick picture, of the two, when compared together, is the most brilliant, and the nature of the process cannot fail rendering it more durable. In fine the whole is to be executed and beautiful a copy, that the mind is lost in conjecture as to the method in which it is executed.

July 3.

Twenty Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY, from the subscriber, a Man—

Slutro Man—a slave—named

S A M;

ABOUT 5 feet 10 inches high, 35 years old—who is a good kitchen gardener, and also a good shoemaker—he is fond of liquor, and licks when speaking. The above reward will be paid on apprehending and confining the above named runaway so that his owner may get him again, and reasonable charges if brought to

HARRIET L. MAUND,

Nomony Hall,

Westmoreland County;

or GEORGE CARTER,

Oatlands, near Leesburg. (Vir.)
